Excerpt: .Hill proposes to carry the idea still further by making the study of Geometry precede Arithmetic, and to this end has prepared the little work before us. He says geometrical facts and conceptions are easier to a child than those of arithmetic, but arithmetical reasoning is easier than geometrical. This suggests the order of these studies as a discipline of the reasoning powers. Arithmetical reasoning first, and geometrical afterwards. We most sincerely commend this little volume and the whole subject to the attention of teachers and all in any way interested in the Subject of education, and add the following chapters to show how clear and vivid an idea of even the higher curves can be obtained by description alone, and how decidedly this habit of conceiving of a curve in kind must assist the student afterwards to apply his analysis and compute it...
