Fig. 10-gives in Nos. 2, 3, and 4 respectively, tracings from a certain, an only moderately certain, and an uncertain drawing. In the drawings with the instruction fast, certainty was reported in all but the first two cases, in which the subject was becoming accustomed to the process. Subject R.--R. differs from the other subjects in the amount and kind of imagery he reports. His imagery is chiefly visual, though kinaesthetic imagery sometimes appears. Often incomplete images are reported, and sometimes part of an image is vague while the rest is clear. TABLE X Subject R.
